STORY HIGHLIGHTS

"I Felt God at Work Today": Gillespie Approach for an Eleven-day-old Newborn

"The bottom line here is that a few minutes of therapy at the beginning of life could potentially prevent 80 years of back pain and other unknown issues."

—Dr. Barry Gillespie

I felt God at work today.

An eleven-day-old newborn presented for his first (and probably last) visit. Mom had brought her last baby in for therapy a few years ago. I usually do not see babies this young, before they start developing our typical issues. But mom knew that an important therapeutic window of opportunity was still present.

I could hear the hiccups during the intake. It was cute. Mom said his big condition was sleeping on his back, a very uncomfortable position for him.

TOPICAL HEALTH NEWS

The Gillespie Approach Can Help Your Child Get Ahead in School and Life Via Cognitive Enhancement Boost

September typically marks the start of the school year for children across America, and what parent wouldn't love seeing straight A's on their kids' report cards?

Did you know that the Gillespie Approach has a track record of helping children and adults gain a brain boost?

Cognitive enhancement is just one benefit to the Gillespie Approach many patients have reported.

A number of patients have experienced cognitive difficulty when they set foot into Dr. Barry Gillespie's office.

And a number of patients or their guardians share stories of cognitive enhancement following therapy.

"Mom said that before therapy she would have been unable to read just like the others. The only variable in that time frame was the therapy. The look on mom's face was priceless as she told this story. For the last forty years I have believed that a relaxed brain is paramount for optimal cognitive function."

—Dr. Barry Gillespie in "Mom, I Love to Read."

If you know a mother whose child is impacted by cognitive difficulty, please share this unique resource with them.

We at the Gillespie Approach believe that babies, children and adults everywhere deserve to be free of cognitive difficulty and enjoy peak brain power!
